

The swell joint. "Hi-ice cold Pop! Lemonade-Orangade! Here-y-are!"

THE MODERN SALOON

Sketches from life by Westerman

COPYRIGHT 1920 MCCLURE
NEWSPAPER SYNDICATE

Algerion Fallsforem makes the sad mistake of "setting em up" to one of the girls while the gang is around.
"Hey! Oh! Alg! Easy mark!" "Oh! Mabel! Mabel and Alg!" "Oh! Kid! Look at the spender!"
"Who's your vampire friend?"

Some of the "swell joints" have cashiers.

One on the house.
"Your money's no good here gran'ma!"

The bartender.
"Well, fellers, what'll y' have?"

A real customer.
The big truck driver who drinks three straight without taking an extra breath.
"Gee! mister! Do you come past here everyday?"

Saloon
loafers.
Hanging around hoping that someone will buy.

A wide-open saloon.

The "trust
me" guy. "Well gee whiz I'm gonna pay y' that thirty five cents ain't I?"
"Sure - an' yer gonna pay before y' get another drink, see!"